MEMORANDUM

MAY 28, 1982

Appeal from the United States District Court for the Southern District of California
The Honorable Judith Keep, District Judge, Presiding

Before: PREGERSON, NELSON, and NORRIS, Circuit Judges.

We unanimously agree that this case is appropriate for submission without oral

Vaughn brought suit against the law firm of Hinchy, Witte, Wood, Anderson, Hodges and Bostwick (Hinchy, Witte). She alleged that the law firm had: (1) engaged in legal malpractice and that as a result of the malpractice she was deproved of her property; (2) billed her for fictitious work; and (3) conspired with two bankruptcy judges to deny her access to the courts. The district court dismissed Vaughn's action for lack of subject matter jurisdiction and Vaughn appeals.

Vaughn's allegations that Hinchy, Witte engaged in legal malpractice, fictitiously billed her and misappropriated her money do not give rise to federal questions actionable in the federal courts. Because Vaughn and the members of the Hinchy, Witte law firm are California residents, diversity jurisdiction is also unavailable.

Vaughn also alleges that she was denied access to the courts because of a conspiracy between Hinchy, Witte and federal bankruptcy judges. This allegation does not give rise to a cause of action under section 1983 because the bankruptcy judges mentioned in the complaint are federal officials, and section 1983 does not apply to the acts of federal officials. See Gillespie v. Civiletti, 629 F.2d 637, 641 (9th Cir. 1980). The allegation also does not give rise to a cause of action under section 1985(3) because there is no allegation that there was a "racially or class-based, invidiously discriminatory animus" behind the alleged conspiracy. Id.

Finally, we conclude that Vaughn's complaint does not state a cause of action for denial of constitutional rights under Bivens. Her allegations simply do not support her contention that the bankruptcy judges conspired to deny her access to the courts. Cf. Gillespie, 629 F.2d at 641 n.2, 642 and 642 n.3. (A prisoner who is denied access to the courts can bring a Bivens-type action for the alleged due process violation.) Thus the dismissal of Vaughn's action was proper. See Aldabe v. Aldabe, 616 F.2d 1089, 1092 (9th Cir. 1980).

Hinchy, Witte requests that it be awarded double costs and attorney's fees pursuant to Fed. R. App. P. 38 and 28 U.S.C. § 1912. This request is denied.

AFFIDAVIT

I, MARY VAUGHN, declare and say,

That I am a proper party to the above-captioned matter.

That I am without an attorney of record in this matter; and that BALBOA MANOR, INC., a corporation of which I am the principle owner and manager, which health care facilities business is an integral and necessary aspect of my case, is also without an attorney of record. The reason why neither I nor my corporation are properly represented by counsel is that though I have tried very hard to retain counsel, I have been, to date, unable to find an attorney who would, after considering my legal needs and goals, accept being my attorney of record. I believe that one of the main reasons why no attorney in San Diego County would take on my case is that it necessarily involves suing for malpractice a prominent San Diego Law Firm, namely, HINCHY, WITTE, WOOD, ANDERSON, HODGES AND BOSTWICK.

Contradictory as it may sound, but my legal problems, with which I am now confronted, and for which I desperately need a competent lawyer, are directly the result of my having hired a lawyer, the firm of Hinchy et al (which I will refer to hereafter as the "Hinchy firm".) I hired the Hinchy firm to protect my rights in a case which to me was clearly fraud; that is a company, American States Leasing to whom I had paid the sum of $16,440.00 under contract for certain goods, did never, and has never delivered the goods or refunded my money. The Hinchy firm assured me they could and would help me. They have never done so, although I have paid them the sum of $14,333.00, and they have since sued me for more. The Hinchy firm not only lost me my potential case of fraud against American States Leasing, for which I had hired them, by failing to file a complaint within the three year statute of limitations, but they, in the course of serving, and charging me, caused me to lose a valuable lease option I had obtained, forced me to petition for a Chapter 11 bankruptcy, which my business did not need or want, but which would have resulted in actually defrauding the Small Business Administration of the Federal government, since Hinchy firm was demanding that I sign false creditor statements. The bankruptcy court caused me to sell my home, and although I had been appointed the trustee in the matter, Mr. Hinchy of the Hinchy firm took the $36,000.00 realized from the sale, put it in his firm's account and refused to give it to me for the needs of my business. It took an order of the Federal Court to make Mr. Hinchy part with my money. The bankruptcy case was finally dropped by the court, but after I had suffered irreparable harm, when and because I steadfastedly refused to sign a formal document called the Plan of Arrangement, necessary to the proceedings, because I knew, and I had so informed the court that document as prepared by the Hinchy firm was full of lies and false creditor claims, and that to sign it would be perpetuating a crime against the United States. The Peitition in Bankruptcy which I had signed under duress in the offices of the Hinchy firm, fortunately was not the only document I had to sign. With the dismissal of the bankruptcy case,

Mr. Hinchy no longer wanted to act as my attorney. For nearly two years I had been trying to dismiss him, but he would not let me get rid of him, though I understood I had a right to change my attorney. In resigning as my attorney, he also resigned as my corporation's attorney and filed a motion, signed by him substituting my corporation as its own attorney to replace the Hinchy firm. I was told later that a corporation could not represent itself by its owner or anyone except an attorney.

Most of my attempts at getting an attorney were for the purpose of replacing the Hinchy firm as my attorneys of record, because they were ruining me. But after Hinchy quit, I could still not get someone who would do legal battle with the Hinchy firm, or defend me against them.

There follows now, the primary purpose of this declaration, the description of my oddysey in search of a lawyer, both for me and my corporation in San Diego County. (Concerning above please see EXHIBITS A, B, and C.)

1. THE FIRST LAWYER I contacted, on referral from a friend, to substitute for me in place of Hinchy firm, is one whose name I am pledged at this time not to reveal. He is afraid. He told me, to my face, "Mrs. Vaughn, Mr. Witte, in that law firm informed me that should I take your case, I will be in trouble with the judge; I cannot afford to be in trouble with the judges so I'm very sorry I cannot take your case." I do not here allege that what he said concerning judges is true, but I do allege the truth of the fact tha t he said those words to me.

2. JAMES P. PIERIK. I do not recall who referred me to Mr. Pierik. He came to my office at Balboa Manor's, Inc. He listened to my story and discussed some aspects with me, and then informed me that it was not the type of case he handled. He charged me and I paid him $150.00.

3. IRWIN SCHROEDER. His name came to my attention from a newspaper article of a case in which he was involved. I went to his office, discussed, and left a packet of evidentiary material with him to study. He had shown an interest in the matter. Later, however, he returned my materials with a note explaining that he could not take the case.

4. BENJAMIN WEISSMANN (and Partner). I remembered that Mr. Weissmann had provided me with some legal services in 1973. Now, in 1977 I contacted him again. I explained my case and that I wanted him to be substituted for the Hinchy firm. He agreed to represent me and I paid him a $600 retainer in advance. He was to be appearing for me, in place of Hinchy firm, before the Hon. Ross Pyle, judge of the U.S. District Court. When Mr. Weissmann and his partner met me at the court, Mr. Hodges of the Hinchy firm was there. I introduced Mr. Weissmann to him and told Mr. Hodges that I was replacing him with Mr. Weissmann. Mr. Hodges then in an abusive tone told Mr. Weissmann that my case was his case and that Mr. Weissmann better stay out of it. Mr. Weissmann and his associate backed off and rapidly left the court house. Mr. Weissmann thus did not take my case. And he did not refund the $600.00 retainer for agreeing to do so.

5. ROY SHORT. Mr. Short was referred to me by a Ms. Melissa Lieberman whom I had met when she was a law clerk. He reviewed my case and told me that he thought there was a good case. He raised the point that I probably had a good case of malpractice against the Hinchy firm. But, he could not handle it.

6. DAVID R. THOMPSON, and MICHAEL BERLIN. I had been referred to a Mr. Michael Berlin, but when I went to his office, he was out, so I presented my case and papers to his partner, Mr. Thompson. I was told to return another day and I did so and then saw Mr. Berlin. Mr. Berlin telephoned to the Hinchy firm (so he told me) and after talking with someone there told me that I already had a good lawyer and thus he could not take my case. He dismissed my argument and plea that it was that "good lawyer" that I wanted to replace with a new one who would better serve me.

7. FLOYD MORROW. I had first met and became aware of Mr. Morrow as an attorney and City Councilperson when I had had the occasion to deal with the City Council in connection with my health service business. I was aware that he had returned to private practice so I sought him out. When I explained to him that I wanted him to replace the Hinchy firm and possibly sue them, he told me that he had not yet re-established himself in private practice to take on a case such as mine.

8. DENNIS DORMAN. I had met Mr. Dorman when he was the instructor of a legal-medical course that I took sponsored by the California Nursing Homes Association. I was most impressed with him, one, because he seemed like a fighter, and two, because my mother's maiden name was Dorman. I contacted him by telephone and he told me to call him back later after he had a chance to talk with the Hinchy firm and arrange to get my fiel. When I called later he told me, almost excited, that Mr. Witte of the Hinchy firm had invited him (Mr. Dorman) and his partner (father) to take offices in a new building that the Hinchy firm were having built. He had confirmed it with his father and they had accepted the Witte offer. Therefore he told me that he could not handle my case now because it might present a conflict of interest.

Now, in the meantime, time is passing and the bankruptcy case is over and the Hinchy firm has quit me. In fact, the Hinchy firm has now filed a suit against me in the Superior Court (May 30, 1980) seeking some $32,024.32 in alleged fees for alleged legal services they claimed to have provided me. Please recall, I had already paid Hinchy firm $14,434.00, and they had only ever caused me harm and loss. And I cannot help but bring to the court's attention that the sum for which Hinchy firm sued me almost exactly equaled the $33,000.00 received for the sale of my home which the Hinchy firm had placed in their bank account rather than my trustee account, and in regard to which it took a court order to get them to give up that money to me. I can only believe they still want that money back. I know of no legal service they ahve performed for me which would entitle them to one cent. I was informed that it was strict liability on an attorney who failed to file a client's complaint on time. Hinchy firm failed to do so, received $14,434.00 for that non-performance, and yet no Court has seemed to be concerned with the substance of those facts, because my form has been imperfect. And Hinchy now sues for the $32,024.32. At least, I thought, I should now be able to get an attorney to defend me from this suit, since Hinchy can no longer demand that my case is theirs. But could I now get an attorney, not to substitute for another, but to represent me first hand? NO.

9. KENNETH BARWICK. I had confided my legal problems to one of my patient's sister, who was a Jehovah's Witness, and she referred me to an attorney who had represented her church. I did contact him and he considered my case, but he could not take it.

10. RICHARD VAUGHN. A neighbor referred me to his office. Mr. Vaughn

it turned out was semi-retired, so I talked with one of his partners at the office. After hearing my tale, he informed me they were too busy with an ongoing trial, and that perhaps I should look outside of San Diego; he suggested Oceanside, Mr. Michael Berlin, No. 6 above, they were in Oceanside.)

11. PETER HUGHES. I just happened to be in the building in which he maintains his office, I believe a bank building, saw the name on the door and went in. I recognized his name of that of a popular attorney in San Diego. I talked with him as he ate his lunch. When I told him that I wanted to sue the Hinchy firm, he told me he didn't handle plaintiff's cases. I asked him to refer me to a lawyer who could help me. He politely told me that he would not want to do so.

12. ELLIOTT PIERCE. Recommended to me by the San Diego Bar Association. The United States Attorney had earlier advised me (after I had sought out their help in locating an attorney) to contact the local Bar. I went to Mr. Pierce's office with all my papers about three weeks prior to a scheduled hearing in my case. He had me leave them with him to go over. Two weeks later he had not yet looked at them and wanted another week. I didn't have a week because the judge in the particular case had given me only three weeks to come in with an attorney, and I now had less than a week left.

13. TERRY HARPER. Also recommended by S.D. Bar Assn. He listened and told me he would have to first discuss the case with his partner, but that in any event I should leave them a retainer of $2,000.00. I gave them a check and a note from Mr. Harper that they had discovered a conflict of interest and could not take my case. The conflict was with the firm that was representing the malpractice insurance company who held the Hinchy firm's malpractice policy.

14. JOHN LEARNED. A third attorney recommended by the S.D. Bar Assn. as an attorney who handled malpractice type suits. I went to his office. Spoke with Mr. Learned about thirty minutes after which he turned me over to his clerk, who asked questions and took notes for nearly two hours. When Mr. Learned returned and reviewed with the clerk, he then told me that I had several possible causes of action against various defendants including the malpractice suit, and several separate claims there. He directed his clerk to get more details. I left and was to call him back after he had had the chance to further study my case. I returned the following Tuesday and was regretfully informed that he had discovered a conflict of interest with the same firm as had Mr. Harper, Ault, Midlam, Reynolds firm, representing Hinchy's insurance carrier. Mr. Learned did kindly refer me to another attorney.

15. STAFFORD PRANTE. I went to his office on a Thursday. The hearing for which I needed counsel was the following Monday. We arranged to meet the next day, Friday, but it turned out he couldn't so we agreed to meet on Sunday. We did meet then and spent several hours going over my case, at the end of which discussions Mr. Prante informed me that he could not become my lawyer because he had a conflict of interest with Mr. Witte of the Hinchy firm. He,

Mr. Prante, told me that he believed I had a good case, but that the only way I was going to get a lawyer to handle it was to go out of San Diego County, to another county entirely.

16. MICHAEL LONDON. In February of 1980 Mr. London agreed to take on my case, but only after I had gone and returned to his office with a cashiers check in the amount of $2,520.00, which I duly gave him. This was on a Monday, and he was to appear in court on my behalf the following Monday. He didn't show up in court, failed to give timely notice that he would not be appearing, which caused me considerable trouble with the judge then involved. When I confronted him and demanded my money back he refused to give it to me. I left his office threatening to go to the District Attorney. He eventually returned

$1,250.00 of the total amount I had been obliged to give him as retainer, telling me that it was worth it to me "just to take my burden upon his shoulders. He has never returned the balance.

I also consulted the A.C.L.U. who kept my papers for two weeks before telling me they "could not see how they could help me." I contacted two women "women's" rights lawyers who had been recommended to me by a friend in Washington. But when they examined my facts and the fact that I needed primarily to sue a prominent San Diego law firm, soon discovered that mine was not the type of "women's rights" case that they handled. I talked with several other attorneys whose names I cannot now recall, but when and if I locate correspondence and information concerning them, I will seek leave to amend this Declaration to include them. And consider, not only did the Hinchy firm get some 14,000 dollars from me and are suing me for 32,000 dollars more for providing me with negative legal services, or none at all, but the lawyers in San Diego County, above mentioned, have charged and kept from returning to me TWO THOUSAND dollars for telling me they could not represent me at all. Am I not to be permitted some reasonable wonderment, some reasonable doubts as to the legal profession in this County, some reasonable belief that someone, something in any event has systematically acted, whether programmed or not to deprive me of proper and competent legal counsel to protect me. Can this be mere coincidence? I don't think it is unreasonable to suspect that it is not. However, one lawyer did earnestly and bravely try to help me.

17. GEORGE G. DICKERSON, ESQ. Formerly a prominent attorney in Washington, D.C., and senior member of three fine law firms in Virginia, until a stroke incapacitated him. A true Southern Gentleman. One of the patients in my health care facility. Knowing of my case and causes for some time, and the fruitless attempts to obtain a lawyer, he got up from his bed and with a "walker" to propel himself he got into the court house, the courtroom, and finally before the judge and bench. There he turned to look at me, "What do you want me to say, Mary?" He seemed near collapse so I helped him to a chair, and then rose back up, once again to defend myself. Mr. Dickerson kindly gave me a letter to show any other attorney, lest they use his (attempted) appearance for me in court to reject me. (See Exhibit D.) Whenever I am able to locate correspondence from the various attorneys mentioned above and others, I will attach the same as exhibits herewith.

I pray that the foregoing declaration will prove to the Court my sincerity when I have said that I have tried to get a lawyer. And that I am neither hysterical, frivolous, nor vexatious, and the substance of my claims are supported by a multitude of facts (several of the above-mentioned attorneys told me that in no uncertain way.) But the forms and procedures for presenting the substance have been denied me, whether by design or not, though the former is strongly indicated, and that amounts to the denial of Due Process of the Law, my right.

I pray that the Court will recognize my need and help me within the frame-work of my motion as the Court has the power to do; or any other help or relief within the Court's power, which may seem right or just to provide me.

Respectfully submitted.

I declare under penalty that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on October 26, 1982 at San Diego, California.

Re: Legal Representation

Dear Ms. Vaughn:

I acknowledge receipt of the three enclosed briefs and complaint you sent me. I have had an opportunity to review them and must inform you that we are unable to represent you in the various matters.

My decision is dictated by Rule 5-102 of the California Rules of Professional Conduct which cautions an attorney against accepting professional employment where he has a relationship to an adverse party. I am a personal friend of David Danielsen of the law firm of Ault, Midlam & Reynolds, one of the parties you have sued. In fact, three weeks ago, Dave informally discussed your lawsuit with me. As such, I perceive a conflict of interest which will prohibit me and our law firm from representing you.

In addition, the scope of the representation you desire is outside the normal course of our practice. Sullivan & Jones specializes in business litigation; the matters you are involved in do not fit within our areas of specialization.

We would recommend that you seek a referral of an attorney from one or more of the following services:

South Bay Lawyer Referral Service, 230 Glover Avenue, Suite I, Chula Vista, California, 92010, telephone # 422-5377; Legal Aid Society of San Diego, Inc., 964 Fifth Avenue, Room 430, San Diego, California 92101, telephone # 239-9611; Lawyer Referral and Information Service of the San Diego County Bar Association, 1434 Fifth Avenue, San Diego, California 92101, telephone # 231-8585; Los Angeles County Bar Association Lawyer Referral Service at 213-622-6700.

Thank you for asking us to represent us.

Sincerely yours,

Edward Patrick Swan, Jr.

RE: Vaughn v. Ault and Hinchy
81-0934-G

Dear George:

It was thoughtful of you to forward to me the complaint and other pleadings in the above entitled cause for my review. As I informed you, due to other pressing litigation, it will be impossible for me to lend my aid and assistance and have therefore suggested that you acquire local counsel to assist you. In that regard, after our telephone conversation of today I contacted two other counsels in the San Diego area and advised them of this matter. However, they also were unable, due to other pressing matters, to become involved.

I certainly wish that we would have been given more advance notice so that a greater opportunity would have existed to alter our schedule accordingly. I certainly wish you the best of luck with regard to this matter and please let me know the outcome of the litigation. Enclosed please find your submissions to me.

Best regards.

Very truly yours,

Carl N. Graf, Jr.
